KÆRE MEDLEM

Sommerferien er slut for de flestes vedkommende, og det markerer samtidig starten på en helt ny whisky sæson. Her fra kontoret håber vi at du har haft en god ferie, og at du er klar på flere nye whisky eventyr.

Vi starter med en fuld omgang sensommer casual days som vi plejer. Hvad vi skal smage på kan du læse mere om på de næste sider, og billetterne finder du under smagninger på smws.dk.

Kigger vi frem mod september, så lægger vi op til en gedigen fest i weekenden den 15. og 16. september. En 40'års jubilæumsmiddag sætter løjerne i gang fredag aften, efterfulgt af The Gathering hvor vi har samlet en hel masse spændende nye flasker der kan smages på.

Om lørdagen får vi besøg af nogle danske destillerier, der har smagsprøver med på deres kunnen. Her har du mulighed for at komme helt tæt på producenterne, og har rig mulighed for at tale med dem om deres passion. Der bliver også mulighed for at smage nogle SMWS aftapninger fra nye destillerier fra andre lande. Det bliver helt sikkert et par fantastiske dage, og vi håber at se dig til festlighederne.

Billetter til weekenden i september finder du ligeledes under smagninger på smws.dk.

På snarligt gensyn,

Med venlig hilsen
Thomas Korsgaard

An easy initial nose that suggested to us natural barley sweetness with new leather, hessian cloth and freshly milled grist soaked with lemon juice. We also noted hand cream, sunflower oil and new shoes. Water brought citrus rinds, butterscotch, pine sap and a vegetal aspect of white asparagus. When neat the palate showed yellow fruits, pollens, trail mix, mothballs and chamomile tea. Also some touches of lemon wax and sandalwood. Reduction offered us spearmint, pineapple sweets, camphor and hibiscus.

The neat nose suggested citrus peels, pear cordial, aloe vera and bubblegum. Beyond that we also noted lemon verbena, thyme, mint tea and an exotic tang of mango salsa. Water brought scones slathered in butter, golden sultanas, hints of sweet noble rot dessert wines and then some mineral oil. The palate was classically dominated by sweet waxes, some nicely assertive peppery warmth, then notes of ink, cereals, olive oil and pineapple jam. Reduction brought sharper notes of green apple, waxed lemon rind, lychee and schnapps. A lovely muddle of the sharp, sweet and waxy.

The panel initially noted after dinner mints, fresh strawberries drizzled with white balsamic, light earthy tones, cask char spice and touches of cider apple, new leather and chlorophyll. With water this profile adopted new leather, resinous hardwood, cinder toffee and red ales. Some wildflowers laden with pollen and notes of tinned peaches in syrup. The palate was initially full of creamy coconut, menthol tobacco, flatbreads, hessians and crushed ferns. Dilution added white pepper, aniseed, fennel seed, red liquorice and salted butter. Matured for 10 years in a bourbon hogshead before transfer to a 2nd fill heavy char hogshead.

After ten years in ex-bourbon wood, we moved this into a first-fill Spanish oak Oloroso hogshead. The nose had curious intimations of cloudy cider, juniper and polished shoes, plus more familiar aromas of treacle, toasted oak and chocolate-coated raisins. The big robust palate had black cherries, sugared almonds and nutty Oloroso-soaked oak, all bathed in a multitudinous mix of spices. The reduced nose found crème brûlée, jam bubbling in a copper pan and seared steak flamed in Armagnac. The reduced palate was even nuttier (macadamias, walnuts, Brazils) with malt loaf, caramel and vanilla – then white pepper, nutmeg and charred oak to finish.

A deep chasm of dark fruits, blackberries and molasses left us searching in the shadows for cherries, candied walnuts and pressed flowers. The palate was also like a ravine of raisins, treacle and cocoa powder with nuances of marzipan, flapjacks and blueberry pancakes. Adding water released a beam of bright sunlight on to unctuous custard and moist fruit cake adorned with singed raisins, toffee sauce and sprinklings of cask char. The palate was now a concoction of peanut brittle, almonds and runny honey in madeira cake topped with chocolate-coated raisins. Twelve years in an ex-bourbon hogshead before being transferred to a first fill Spanish oak oloroso hogshead.

Freshly squeezed orange and lemon juice were stirred into a glass of cool ginger beer with a drop of minted blackcurrant jam. A touch of smoked salt on the palate accented a gingery spice, with cinnamon and treacle adding further depth. Water initially brought forward fennel on the nose, followed by dark chocolate, peach and dried black cherries soaked in red wine, which were also apparent on the palate. A late emergence of eucalyptus offered a refreshing finish. After 12 years in an ex-bourbon hogshead, we transferred this to a first fill American oak PX hogshead for the remainder of its maturation.

NOT A GENUINE 'PHILOSOPHICAL' PARADOX

The aromas neat almost caused a philosophical paradox, on the one hand we got cordite, damp slabs of peat and dulce dried seaweed but then on the other hand, honeyed pears in puff pastry and custard slices emerged. On the palate we were in unison with minty-melon juice, ashy smoke and a jalapeno heat. With water we walked through overgrown ferns to reach the coast where we managed to find a bar serving limeade with mint and a key lime smoked mojito. At nine years of age, we combined selected hogsheads from the same distillery into a variety of different casks to develop further. This is one of those casks.

BONFIRE ON A CLYDE PUFFER

OUTTURN DK	42 bottles

We lit a bonfire in the autumn forest while imagining, at the same time, a whiff from a Clyde puffer engine room before peat smoked pears and vanilla pods and dry roasted peanuts took centre stage. On the palate it felt like “we varnished our tongues”, real intense smoke, medicinal, oily and greasy – truly an experience. After the more then needed dilution, we had a burnt baked apple, blackened bananas wrapped in aluminium foil, and we set a blackberry bush on fire. Still big but much more manageable with a sweet fruity plum wine, liquorice all sorts and in the finish a horseradish/wasabi heat.

SPECULOOS COOKIE BUTTER ICE CREAM

The initial impression was rather shy, but there was plenty to be discovered. We found classic puff pastry, cinnamon raisin bagels, hints of anis, and even lightly smoked cheese, fresh sea air and birch tree sap. A spicy taste was followed by a drying mouthfeel of a long oak-aged red wine followed by cured ham, nutmeg, vanilla, ginger and soy sauce. With the addition of water we had two scoops of ice cream, one being rum and raisin, the other caramelised cookie butter with coarsely crushed speculoos biscuits. On the palate, a rum baba with chantilly cream and raisins, and a hint of spicy/sweet wood smoke in the finish.
