Juni måned er traditionelt den sidste Casual måned inden sommerferien, og som bekendt har vi i år været nødt til at gøre det hele på en anden måde. Til gengæld øjner vi ly for enden af tunnelen, og krydser fingre for at tilstandene ikke forværres igen, så vi atter kan mødes i vante rammer og nyde nogle gode dramme sammen.

Juni måneds Outturn er muligt at købe som sample sæt, og de der har lyst kan følge Terjes og mine bestrebelse på at komme hele sættet igennem, lørdag den 6. juni kl. 20.00 i Friends gruppen på Facebook. Vi lader videoen ligge til de der ikke lige har mulighed for at deltage om lørdagen, så kan den altid ses efterfølgende, skulle lysten være dertil.

Flaskerne i dette Outturn sættes til salg umiddelbart efter smagningen den 6. juni.

Forudsat at tingene stadig går den rigtige vej efter sommerferien, så er vi i gang med at planlægge et super spændende efterår for de danske medlemmer. Vi har en del opfølgning på de respektive steder vi plejer at mødes, og der kan ske nogle små ændringer i forhold til hvad der blev meldt ud fra starten af året.

Vi forventer at have den fulde plan med i juli Outturnet.

Til medlemmerne der plejer at deltage i Vejle, kan vi allerede nu afsløre, at vi har fået lavet et virkeligt fedt lokale hvor fremtidens Casual Days og lignende arrangementer kommer til at foregå. En fed "members feel", med bar og god plads, så for nogen af de tidlige medlemmer bliver det lidt som "i de gode gamle dage" :)

På gensyn den 6. juni til Virtuel Casual Day, og endnu engang tak for støtten fra alle os i Vejle...

Med venlig hilsen
Thomas Korsgaard

Imagine sunrise over the North Sea in Sunderland on a cold, fresh and clear autumn morning, overlooking a golf course where the groundsmen were preparing the putting greens for the first golfers to arrive and tee off. But before that we had breakfast, starting with a bowl of cereal with slices of bananas and oranges, grapefruit juice as well as chocolate caramel shortbread. After a drop of water we were ready to tee off at the first hole with pristine clean leather shoes and golf bag from which we selected a three-wood club. The golf ball landed in the middle of the fairway – a perfect start to the round!

A beautiful soft and sweet aroma reminded us of cotton candy, butterscotch and coconut as well as a V.S.O.P. Rhum Agricole Vieux from Martinique using fresh sugar cane juice. Wonderfully silky and sweet on the palate neat; sugar cane juice, golden syrup, lightly candied pears and sugared almonds with an interesting exotic spice in the finish. A tiny drop of water and on the nose, we had plenty of exotic fruits next to a Masala chai, black tea with a mixture of aromatic Indian spices and herbs. To taste now - a sweet malted hot drink with a touch of cinnamon, butterscotch pancakes and a creamy tropical milkshake.

A MERRY ADVENTURE!

Childhood memories of walking through the forest and finding a good hazel stick to make a bow for playing Robin Hood. We took a rest and, in our rucksack, we had a big slice of spiced (cinnamon, nutmeg and ginger) popping candy chocolate tart. When we added water we imagined walking to the archery contest organised by the Sheriff of Nottingham and from the market stalls aromas of vanilla sponge, coconut oil, freshly baked bread and roasted nuts reached us before we split the arrow from another contestant and celebrated with wagon wheels – two biscuits with a marshmallow sandwich filling covered in a chocolate coating.

The undiluted aromas felt like pure decadence, with black treacle dripping off a scone, brandy butter and gooey dark chocolate brownies, and lashings of honey. One panellist honed in on memories of plums soaked in Armagnac. The taste started off with a blast of spicy heat but soon relaxed into linguine with a garlic langoustine sauce served with a drizzle of truffle oil and chestnut mushrooms. Water added leather & toffee notes, ripe cherries and slices of blood orange sorbet while on the palate now a sweet nuttiness, hot chocolate with cinnamon whipped cream and plenty of marshmallows and a solera gran reserva Spanish brandy de Jerez. After nine years in an ex-oloroso butt we transferred this whisky into a new oak, heavily charred puncheon.

An amazing colour of highly polished conkers was followed by a herbal whack, almost slightly medicinal - like crushed aspirin - but at the same time roasted chestnuts and blackstrap rum. On the palate neat it reminded us of two classic cocktails 'Corn 'n' Oil' and 'Dark 'n' Stormy' – serious stuff. Assertive spices met dark treacle toffee and an espresso to the power of 4! With the addition of water, a dark sweetness of molasses appeared next to caramelised figs as well as prune and Armagnac tart. The taste was that of a juicy pack of sultanas stirred with a cinnamon stick and a death by chocolate cake made with PX Sherry.

The nose carries wood smoke, delicate as moonlight, clean as crystal; behind that fine-spun smoky veil, we identified sugary espresso, ginger biscuits, sweet aniseed, sweetie necklaces, Pandrops and orange oil smeared on leather. To taste, the smoke seems wonderfully mature, accompanied by sweetness (chocolate wafers, red onion jam) that turns to gentle spice – cinnamon balls, clove rock and Oddfellows. The reduced nose is smooth and sophisticated – muted smoke, chocolate Brazils and raspberry ice-cream at the seaside. The palate is just so easy – a swirl of silky sweetness entwined with a twist of unassuming spice, all wafted to heaven on a billow of delicate smoke.

Let's talk about a luxury lifestyle on a superyacht anchored in a tropical sea bay with a one-stop beauty parlour, champagne nail bar, hair lounge combined with the scents of perfumes mingling with the exotic floral sea breeze. On the teak sun deck we were served a flute of strawberry lime champagne – fancy, juicy and so refreshing! After a dip in the blue turquoise lagoon how about a Pina colada or a frozen pineapple daiquiri but then, when we took a sip, the dream bubble popped and we were back in the kitchen drinking tea with milk, eating marshmallow flumps, midget gems and jelly babies.

A dense and creamy nose! Custard creams, cream horns, Sauternes drizzled over quivering custard puddings and notes of butter, lychee and some squirry cream from a bottle. There's also coastal wildflowers, sandalwood, Fruit Chew sweeties and some tart cider apple notes. With water there's peached pears in syrup, mashed banana on granary toast, sweet old cider, fondant icing and banana liqueur with faint note of linseed oil and smoked lemon rind. The palate is similarly sweet and viscous but balanced by some grippy tannin and a wonderfully dense texture. Notes of petrol, glycerol, slated caramel, tonka beans and a fatty vanilla note. Reduction offers notes of golden sultanas, mincemeat, orange peel, pink grapefruit, Earl Grey tea and some citric tartness to keep things lively. Matured for 11 years in a bourbon hogshead before being transferred to a first-fill Sauternes barrique.

Seriously scintillating with aromas of wood char, tar and a dowsed peat fire but at the same time, menthol and liquorice notes were combined with vanilla pipe tobacco and a salted caramel sauce. The palate neat was like deep-fried whitebait in a creamy roasted garlic mayo (devilled whitebait). With water it evolved to open-fire roasted fruits (maple-baked apple and cinnamon-roasted pears) but also crab meat in smoky sweet potato soup. The taste was now salty, sweet and smooth with a delicate hint of smoke teasing in the background making this a very enjoyable experience – classic campfire treats on the beach!

A rather bonkers initial aroma of dark soils, smoked plasticine, lashings of pickled mackerel and farmy cow sheds. Fire embers, game meats, mutton, smoked goat cheese, horse sweat and mud. Baled hay, hints of silage, smoked earth and BBQ brisket with a good dash of hot sauce. Water brought out even more funky and hefty farmyard aromas. Lots of autumnal sooty notes, smoked green peppers, charred vegetables, chipotle chilli, tractor engine parts, old hay lofts and sheep fank. The palate opened with sweet Thai green curry, smoked pork ribs, aged Belgian saison beers, Lapsang Souchong, smoked herring, herbal cigarettes and muddy fishing wellies. With water there emerged some kind of peated turnip with WD40, bike chains, boiler fug, old copper coins, chimney soot and fermented soy broth.

50/50 lime juice and brine at first nosing. Then bright, shining peat smoke and clean, crisp, freshly kilned malt. Sooty cereals, cured meats, hessian, bonfire and newspaper ash. Add to this some squid ink, BBQ charred calamari with lemon juice and mercurchrome-drenched wellies. Reduction reveals pure farmyard smokiness. Bonfires on the seashore, old rope, tar liqueur, stir fried oysters with soy sauce, liquid seasoning and vinegar-soaked chip wrapping paper. The neat palate is like a hot injection of lighter fluid and antiseptic. Salt baked cod, iodine drops, lemon flavoured cough syrup, pine air freshener, TCP, mouthwash and fiery salami. With water it all melts into hot plastic, lemon infused green tea, kippers in kedgerree, petrol doused oatmeal, green olives bobbing in seawater and dried seaweed in ramen broth.

Rich ripe bananas, pineapple and papayas, sweet burnt sugar, citrus/grapefruit spice, a hint of tobacco, furniture polish and coconut – totally tropical, wow! On the palate oily, dark treacle, liquorice, cinnamon and bitter chocolate with a petrol-like salted lime finish. When we added water we imagined cleaning a nautical brass ship lantern with Brasso metal polish or indeed maintaining a ship's massive 2-stroke generator engine. To taste, a lovely dark sweetness rolling around in the mouth like pure maple syrup, or cough medicine with that spoonful of Demerara sugar. Very bold, very flavoursome but not necessarily what you might expect from rum.

A close-up, low-angle shot of a hand holding a glass decanter of whisky. The decanter is partially filled with a golden liquid. In the foreground, a glass of whisky on the rocks sits on a dark surface. The lighting is warm and dramatic, highlighting the textures of the glass and the liquid. The background is dark and out of focus, showing a person's arm in a grey sweater.
